Liquor Cases in Federal Court; 1 Raid in Richmond

BROOK'S SOFT DRINK PLACE YIELDS BOOZE POLICE RAID

The raid on the soft drink establishment of John M. Brooks at 3026 Cutting boulevard, that was pulled off late yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police W. H. Wood and Sergeant Dan Cox, brought strong evidence of the many complaints that had been received that liquor was being sold at the place in violation of law.

Brooks was arrested, later released on $250 bail, and will appear in Judge Odell's court this morning to plead to a charge of violating the provisions of the City of Richmond Volstead law.

As a result of the search wine and jackass brandy was secured, and there were a number of small kegs found, wrapped in sacks, that had every evidence of having been filled at one time, and prepared to be sent out for a further supply.

The general report is that the Brooks place is not the only one in the Pullman district where the Volstead law is being violated.

Sacramento and All-Stars Will Battle Saturday

The first of a series of games between the picked All-stars of the Twilight league and the teams of Northern California will be played on the First street grounds in Richmond Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Then it will be that Sacramento will engage Howard French's nine.

Many Enrolled in Classes Daily Bible School

Approximately 325 persons are now enrolled in the Daily Bible school which is now in its third week, according to Miss Mildred Ahlum, superintendent of the school. However, there has been a slight decrease during the past week on account of people leaving on their vacations.

Rev. H. K. Sanborn gave a lecture at the Presbyterian church last night accompanied by stereopticon slides. He has just returned from a trip to Yosemite Valley from which the slides were made.

The pupils will start on a picnic at Moswood Park Saturday leaving the church at 10 o'clock in the morning. The school will last two weeks longer.

The banquet room was elaborately decorated and flowers of various varieties were in evidence about the table. In the center of one of the long tables was a large cake which at the beginning of the feast was sliced by the incoming Noble Grand.

The food of the occasion consisted of turkey sandwiches, salads, different kinds of cake, coffee and other morsels of the most delicious kind.

Members of the refreshment committee were: Mrs. D. E. Harvey, (chairman), Mrs. J. MacGrath, Mrs. M. E. Odell, Mrs. M. Chapman, Mrs. L. Marshall, Mrs. A. C. Blount, Mrs. Heinson, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. A. Betts and Mrs. Bethards.

CHECK OF 1906 IS FOUND IN WATER NEAR TOWN BAY PT.

Whether or not Mrs. O. Anderson who lives at the lighthouse on Roe Island will be $1,000 richer when she presents a check to a San Francisco bank which she found floating on the water in a bottle near the lighthouse is yet to be known. However, she did find a check in a bottle opposite Bay Point for that amount and it was dated 1906.

On the back of the check a note was pinned stating that the boat in which the person was writing was sinking and that the finder could have the money which the check called for. The finder expects to present the check to the bank to test whether it is a joke or not.

Moose To Initiate Thirty

At a pleasant meeting in Moose hall last evening, the Richmond lodge, L. O. O. M., had the pleasure of hearing Judge C. S. Hannum recount some of the experiences of his recent visit to the eastern cities, and the Moose convention in Toledo, Ohio.

Judge Hannum reported that a class of twenty-five was graduated from the high school at Mooseheart, the Moose home for dependent children. He stated that at present 1085 children are being cared for there.

The Richmond lodge will initiate a class of about thirty candidates at its meeting the first Thursday in August. Initiatory work will be in charge of the Oakland lodge. At this meeting Judge Hannum will make his formal report as a delegate to the grand lodge convention, which will be followed by a banquet and entertainment for which a committee to make plans will be named in the near future.

The regular monthly meeting of the Richmond Business Men's Association held last evening at the club house was marked by an unusually large and enthusiastic attendance and there were several truly eloquent and forceful presentations of modern business problems, followed by an open forum that was marked by profitable and straight-to-the-point impromptu talks by various members.

The speakers of the evening were James Lynch, of San Francisco, Business Councillor, and Mr. Roy Munsell, of Oakland, who is with Bradstreet, Messrs. Herbert Schrader and C. E. Bennett furnished the music for the occasion, with piano and violin, respectively, and it is needless to say that their performance was more than acceptable.

Paul Bolin, a veteran of the World war, who left a leg at the battle of Creteau Thierry, was introduced by Mr. L. Garinkie, who acted as chairman, and after a few humorous remarks, presented a gratifying collection of card tricks seldom equalled on the professional stage. His speed and dexterity bewildered the spectators for a very pleasant twenty minutes. The applause given Mr. Bolin was an ovation in itself.

This part of the evening's program immediately followed the usual dinner, which for bounteousness and excellent service more nearly approached a banquet.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bolin's entertainment, Mr. Garinkie introduced Mr. Lynch, who took for his subject, "Co-operative Community Selling." In a pleasing vein of mingled humor and seriousness, the speaker traced the progress of California's Community Selling in the fruit industry, showing the enormous growth due to co-operation. Illustrating the power of human endeavor when united, Mr. Lynch gave a graphic description of the breaking of a yoke of oxen in olden times to pull together, pointing the truism of the motto, "Teamwork Wins."

Continuing, Mr. Lynch laid special emphasis on the three words, "Efficiency, Teamwork, and Service." Each of the two former, he showed pointedly, unites into Service, showing that every store in Richmond should be in the last analysis a "Service Station" in the real sense of the words.

Touching the various points of his lecture with directness and well-chosen similes, the speaker summed up the whole message very aptly in a few axioms—"You cannot keep the buyers at home working single-handed—A sale is not a sale until a true Service has been rendered."

Mr. Lynch defined true salesmanship as selling what the merchant has to sell at a profit, together with perfect satisfaction. Again he pointed ed out that undue competition, instead of being the "life of trade" has often been the ruin of business, and advised that the only kind of competition that is legitimate is competition in service.

Mr. Lynch advised very strongly against improper price-cutting as demoralizing to the buyer and as meaning bankruptcy in the end to most merchants who follow this paralyzing practice.

Some salient points chosen at random will illustrate the keen and concise style of this masterly lecture on modern business methods: "A concerted plan of united, persistent Advertising alone will change the buyer's state of mind."

"Merchants at daggers" points never get beyond the throat-cutting state of mind.

"Who is boss of the store—the public is always boss, of course."

"Put 'U' into Unity—then you have put Unity into your Community."

Mr. Lynch's pleasing style of delivery and his grasp and vision of this subject so near to the hearts and lives of his hearers carried the audience with him to a crashing climax of applause.

The chairman next introduced Mr. Munsell with a few graceful remarks. Mr. Munsell spoke on "Proper Credits," and he also laid special stress on the foundation of co-operation and organization throughout (Continued on Page Six)

OFFICIAL PAPER CITY OF RICHMOND

THINKOGRAPHS by F. J. HULANISKI

"THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS"

Times have certainly changed wonderfully since we grownups of today were little boys and girls and went trudging over the hill to the little red school house, where "no lickin' no larnin'" was the rule. Some of the changes are for the better and some are for the worse, but probably none of us would want to change back again to the primitive. No automobile took us to school, or anywhere else, as there was none. If we studied any at night it was under a kerosene lamp, and seeing anyone talk into a receiver at the end of a wire would have made us sure he was either crazy or possessed of the devil, and maybe both. The only shoes there were women wore, and they were called gaiters; men and boys wore boots, which were hard to get on and off. When we took our books under our arm and went to school, among them was a slate, something one never sees nowadays. The slate was bound with red felt, so it would not make a noise on the desk. In one end of the frame was a hole and in the hole was tied two pieces of string; from one string dangled a slate pencil and from the other a small sponge. This sponge was generally stiff and dry, owing to the disinclination of the teacher to let us leave our seat ever and anon and dip the sponge into the drinking water bucket. This irked us but little, however, for when the slate got full of writing it could be and was licked clean in a very short time. The taste of it was not unpleasant. Slate pencils did not require sharpening only when they got gummy or broke off, in which case you went outside and rubbed them on the stone step. A new slate pencil had a gilt paper glued on the upper half of it, and when it broke in two one had to suck that gilt paper off, as it stuck like everything, perseverance and sharp teeth did away with it. Our best girl wore her yellow hair braided in two pigtails down her back, and when we would pass her a note in school we would get rapped good and hard over the knuckles with a ruler, or pointer, the latter being a long round stick used to point out things on the map. We used to love that little girl with the pigtails more than Marc Antony loved Cleopatra, so took the whacks across the back of the hand with stoic martyrdom. It was lots of fun to be a schoolboy in those "good old days."

Believe in today and bet on tomorrow and both will always be worth while. Indifference is deadly.

It is a waste of lather to shave an ass, likewise no part of wisdom to attempt the inoculation of a bonehead with the virus of boss sense.

Maybe Brother Rockefeller, a Baptist in good standing, fears the boiling oil process of a hereafter, and is therefore reducing the supply and raising the price.

The new admiral in command of the Pacific fleet has a lot of yellow stripes running around his sleeves and collar, but none at all running up and down his back.

One of the troubles of our system is every time the country is in the grip of a perilous emergency the U. S. senate settles down into a long period of wind-jamming.

There would be few knockers if we all had to take three months training in the lines we assume to criticize.

There is yet on hand a barrel of beer and a gallon of whisky for every man in the country. Then why all holler? We should think that was about enough.

WE'RE ALL MUCH ALIKE

The capitalist grumbles at the working man and the laborer grumbles at the capitalist, but they are both much alike, as far as human nature and its characteristic traits are concerned. Each would do about as the other is doing now if the tables were reversed. Human nature knows no caste. The common every day man is just as full of the good and bad traits of it as the capitalist is, and vice versa, and given like opportunities would do pretty much the same as the other fellow. Take away from the rich today all that they have, giving it to the poor would not solve the problem at all, for the reason that the same problems would be in evidence again tomorrow—the wealth would drift into the hands of a few, and the socialistic calamity howler would be leaning up against the same telephone pole grumbling and clamoring for another division of property. When it comes to the deficiencies and weaknesses of human nature we are all tarred with the same stick, and those weaknesses must be here of a higher power, and that individually we that will never be until we all get nearer to the teachings of Christ. We may pass all the laws we want to; those with wealth will continue to buy off the lawmakers, officers, courts and juries, and if we throw out one set of officials and put in another the new ones soon become tainted with the glitter of gold because of the greed and selfishness inherent in their human nature. There are many fine theories but they do not work out in practice, and never will until much of the greed in human nature is eradicated. That will be only when we realize that we are merely the agents strengthened before wrongs can be righted. And ourselves are no more than any other big ant hill full of insects swarming around and trying to see which can grab the biggest bread crumbs.

You'll notice that when we human geeks
 Get sick of worry, toil and grime,
 We rest ourselves a flock of weeks
 And call it our vacation time.

The man who keeps his word with his fellow man will be rated as A-1 when politicians are quoted at ten cents a ton.

The wise men of antiquity knew many things about life that some wise men today imagine they have originally discovered.

Rockefeller earned his first dollar in 1848 selling turkeys, and we paid him our last dollar in 1921 buying gas.

Theatrical people frequently train a monkey to act like a man, thereby spoiling a perfectly good monkey.

People are not as good as the average candidate for office says they are, nor as mean as Billy Sunday intimates. They average between the two.

The man who goes home with a 15-cent cigar stuck in his face has no roar coming if his wife has two or three electric light globes burning.

No sort of government will ever be popular with the men who have to pay the taxes, and any sort of government will always be popular with the men who hold office.

Even after prohibition becomes world-wide it will be necessary to teach temperance, because a lot of people all over the world will continue to eat too much and talk too much.

"The Nut" by Doug
Fairbanks, Big
Film Production

In "The Nut," Douglas Fairbanks' fifth production for the United Artists, the star has a vehicle that is absolutely made to order. It is not pictured from some widely-read book or famous stage play, but is an original story written especially for the occasion by Kenneth Davenport, and the screen adaptation was prepared by William Parker and Lotia Woods under "Doug's" own supervision.

The management of the Richmond T & D theater announces that Fairbanks' admirers will have an opportunity to view this versatile actor's work from an entirely new angle when the picture opens for a 2 day run today. Not only does he go smashing and crashing through five reels of complicated comedy-drama, but he portrays emotion that has a heart touch in it. The trend of the story carries him from the sublime to the ridiculous, and although much that he does is grotesque there is never a time it is said, when he does not win your sympathy with his antics.

Douglas Fairbanks is not the whole show, however. Another big comedy feature is added to the bill. Buster Keaton in "The Haunted House" is a riot of uproarious riffs in the realm of ghosts and counterfeits. Don't miss this combination. It's an evening of unbroken fun.

SPORTS

ALL STANDARDS DEFEAT REFINESS

Yesterday's game at First Street park, between the Refiners and All Standards, was not marked by anything sensational, except that the league leaders were trimmed by a score of 7 to 4, and some of the weaker hitters of the All Standards showed they could hit on occasions.

Notable among these gentlemen was Regan, the agile second base watchman for the Standards. Regan not only batted .667 for the day, but one of his two bingles was a triple that scored two men. Radke, too, may have reason for feeling chesky, since in three trips to bat he got a pair of two-sackers, making a nifty little day's work.

O'Connor's work on the mound looked a little weak in spots, but he might have gotten away nicely had it not been for the disastrous sixth stanza. A total of five hits and four tallies at this juncture was the blow that killed the Refiners.

Phelps started the merry round of the sixth with a stiff line drive that was over Duncan's head. Duncan knocked it down, but Phelps was safe. Snively negotiated first on a little bunt along the third base line, Snively advancing to the second sack. Then Mr. Regan connected for the famous three-bagger and Snively ran, pushing Phelps ahead of him. Bradley hit to Bartram, who pegged home to catch Regan. Regan was a little hurt in his slide to the plate, but quickly recovered.

Radke poled one way out to center for two bases, scoring Bradley, and Radke gained third on the play for Radke. Hansen singled over second and Radke scored. Duncan then hit into a double play, Bartram to Childs. Count 'em up, five hits and four runs.

In the seventh the Refiners tried to rally, but Childs went out, Regan to McDonough, and Bartram fanned. Steen walked and stole second. Schaller got a free pass, also, and Steen stole third and Schaller second. Then Steen got home on a wild heave, but Autrey was an easy put-out for McDonough.

No Twilight league game is now complete without at least one homer. Steen, one of the hardy batsmen hitting .667 for the day, obliged the crowd by poking one over the left field fence in the first. It was sure a neat clout, but hardly the longest hit of the day. Radke, in the Standard's half of the fourth, hit one clear to the scoreboard in deep center, making but two bases on it, however.

An example of two outs not making things safe for the pitcher was exhibited in the same fourth frame. In this affair Pitcher walked, and then Cannon hit a short fly, Friene pegged and caught Pitcher off first. This double made things look lots brighter for Phelps, but Duncan hit safely between left and center, and then stole second. Childs then binged out a three-bagger, scoring Duncan. Bartram added to the festivity with a two-sacker, which scored Childs. All this with two good men gone. If Steen hadn't filed out to Bradley, they might be batting yet. You never can tell.

The one freak of circumstances the game produced was the way the game was tied twice. Notice that the Refiners made a run in the first, and the Standards immediately followed suit with one for themselves. Then in the fourth inning before mentioned, the Refiners felt immensely better to see two runs go up for them. But the perverse All Standards, acting as if they really wanted to win, turned right around and produced a couple of tallies all their own.

O'Connor acted as though he were going to try to beat the strike-out record hung up by Fitzgerald yesterday. The laurels still rest on Fitzgerald's brow, however, for after achieving a sum total of six, Finn failed to whiff any more of them.

Umpire Ebert, who worked behind the plate yesterday, came in for a little ragging in the second inning. Quite a lot of fans and spectators thought he miscaled a BASE BALL.....GAL TWO few strikes on Phelps, but the lanky arbiter stuck to his guns and the raspberry played out shortly.

MUCH IN LITTLE

It is still the stone age, if the stone is a diamond.

If you would lead, first discover where they want to go.

A Turks family auto must be a sight-seeing bus or moving van.

Yes, money talks, but about all it says is good-bye.

The fellow who stutters hasn't anything on the motor boat.

A man will walk a long way if there is a chance to ride back.

Some of the bathing suits are enough to make the wild waves wilder.

There is always room for argument, but the room is occupied.

In placing the blame a man is apt to overlook himself.

It is the corns on ones mind that must not be stepped on.

Most of those who expect to have their own way are still young.

It is painful to have to pay a lawyer after he has lost the case.

The man who thinks he is a "gay deceiver" fools only himself.

It is difficult to start trouble without getting into it.

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS OF DEMOCRACY
BY IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Taylor, with their two children, Josiah and Sissy, travel by wagon from their home in Vorenesse, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Taylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Taylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Blm, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, a crowd attempts to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNeil, the Armstrong crowd, and McNeil threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNeil and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Blm driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Taylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI.—Taylor helps two slaves who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Elphilett Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Taylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Blm Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Blm's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Blm confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

and manner. Her face seemed to say: "It's silly but I can't help it."

"I've been happy all the time, for I knew you was waiting for me," Samson remarked. "I feel rich every time I think of you and the children. Say, look here."

He untied the bundle and put the dress and finery in her lap.

"Well, I want to know!" she exclaimed, as she held it up to the candlelight. "That must have cost a pretty penny."

"I don't care what it cost—it ain't half good enough—not half," said Samson.

As he sat down to his supper he said:

"I saw that slaver, Biggs, get off the boat with his big bay mare. There was a ducky following him with another horse."

"Good land!" said Sarah. "I hope he isn't coming here. Mrs. Onstot told me today that Blm Kelso has been getting letters from him."

"She's such an odd little critter and she's got a mind of her own—anybody could see that," Samson reflected.

"She ought to be looked after pretty careful. Her parents are so taken up with shooting and fishing and books they kind of forget the girl. I wish you'd go down there tomorrow and see what's up. Jack is away, you know."

"I will," said Sarah.

It was nearly two o'clock when Samson, having fed and watered his horses, got into bed. Yet he was up before daylight, next morning, and singing a hymn of praise as he kindled the fire and filled the tea kettle and lighted his candle lantern and went out to do his chores while Sarah, partly reconciled to her new disappointment, dressed and began the work of another day. So they and Abe and Harry and others like them, each under the urge of his own ambition, spent their great strength in the building and defense of the republic and grew prematurely old. Their work began and ended in darkness and often their days were doubled by the burdens of the night. So in the reckoning of their time each year was more than one.

Sarah went down to the village in the afternoon of the next day. When Samson came in from the fields to his supper she said:

"Mr. Biggs is stopping at the tavern. He brought a new silk dress and some beautiful linen for Mrs. Kelso. He tells her that Blm has made a new man of him. Claims he has quit drinking and gone to work. Blm and her mother are terribly excited. He wants them to move to St. Louis and live on his big plantation in a house next to his—rent free."

Samson knew that Biggs was the type of man who weds Virtue for her dowry.

"A man's judgment is needed there," said he. "It's a pity Jack is gone. Biggs will take that girl away with him sure as shooting if we don't look out."

"Oh, I don't believe he'd do that," said Sarah. "I hope he has turned over a new leaf and become a gentleman."

"We'll see," said Samson.

They saw and without much delay the background of his pretensions for one day within the week he and Blm rode away and did not return. Soon a letter came from Blm to her mother, mailed at Beardstown. It told of their marriage in that place and said that they would be starting for St. Louis in a few hours on the Star of the North. She begged the forgiveness of her parents and declared that she was very happy.

"Too bad! Isn't it?" said Sarah when Mrs. Waddell, who had come out with her husband one evening to bring this news, had finished the story.

"Yes, it kind of spyles the place," said Samson. "I'm afraid for Jack Kelso—fraid it'll bust his fiddle if it don't break his heart. His wife is alone now. We must ask her to come and stay with us."

"The Allens have taken her in," said Mrs. Waddell.

"That's good," said Sarah. "I'll go down there tomorrow and offer to do anything we can."

When Mr. and Mrs. Waddell had gone Sarah said: "I can't help thinking of poor Harry. He was terribly in love with her."

"Well, he'll have to get over it—that's all," said Samson. "He's young and the wound will heal."

It was well for Harry that he was out of the way of all this, and entered upon adventures which absorbed his thought. As to what was passing with him we have conclusive evidence in two letters, one from Col. Zachary Taylor, in which he says:

"Harry Needles is also recommended for the most intrepid conduct as a scout and for securing information of great value. Compelled to abandon his wounded horse he swam a river under fire and under the observation of three of our officers, through whose help he got back to his command, bringing a bullet in his thigh."

With no knowledge of military service and a company of untrained men, Abe had no chance to win laurels in the campaign. His command did not get in touch with the enemy. He had his hands full maintaining a decent regard for discipline among the raw frontiersmen of his company.

When the dissatisfied volunteers were mustered out late in May, Kelso and McNeil, being sick with a stubborn fever, were declared unfit for service and sent back to New Salem as soon as they were able to ride. Abe and Harry joined Captain Hies' company of Independent Rangers and a month or so later Abe re-enlisted to serve with Captain Early, Harry being under a surgeon's care. The latter's wound was not serious and on July third he too joined Early's command.

This company was chiefly occupied in the moving of supplies and the burying of a few men who had been killed in small engagements with the enemy. It was a band of rough-looking fellows in the costume of the frontier farmer and workshop—ragged, dirty and unshorn. The company was disbanded July tenth at Whitewater, Wisconsin, where, that night, the horses of Harry and Abe were shot.

They started on their long homeward tramp with a wounded sense of decency and justice. They felt that the Indians had been wronged, that the greed of land grabbers had brutally violated their rights. This feeling had been deepened by the massacre of the red women and children at Bad Ax.

A number of mounted men went with them and gave them a ride now and then. Some of the travelers had little to eat on the journey. Both Abe and Harry suffered from hunger and sore feet before they reached Peoria, where they bought a canoe and in the morning of a bright day started down the Illinois river.

They had a long day of comfort in its current with a good store of bread

IS NO ALCOHOL IN NEW CUBAN DRINK BUT HAS BIG KICK

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Cubans are a grateful race. We freed them from Spain, and now they are going to free us from Volstead, according to a dispatch from Havana to the department of commerce today.

A new drink, neither beer or whisky, nor any dopey junk, but a drop of which will make you frisky and a spoonful make you drunk, has been discovered by the new sugar college of Cuba, the dispatch declared.

Scientists of the college, which is government endowed, declare that the drink contains not a drop of alcohol nor any substance which would bar its importation into the United States under the Volstead act or anti-narcotic laws. It is made from sugar, but the entirely new and wildly intoxicating liquor is dependent upon a secret chemical transformation.

THROAT TROUBLE CURED

Oakland, Nov. 1, 1920. To whom it May Concern:
I suffered from throat trouble for 15 years, during which time I could neither eat nor swallow without pain. I became very weak and was unable to work for months. I had numerous doctors and then tried a Throat specialist, who told me that my trouble was due to the blood. He advised me to take blood medicine. Thereupon my brother, who had been cured of Stomach Trouble by the FONG WAN HERBS, urged me to try them. After drinking the herbs for 15 weeks, I felt entirely well. I have since gained 25 pounds. It is 10 months since I took the herbs, and I am now giving this testimonial to let the public know that any sufferer should try the FONG WAN HERBS. I am a watchman for the California Food Specialties Co.

Candidates Success is Confidence

absolutely free among the candidates who hustle the most—and the next five weeks will decide who they will be.

For the next two weeks the following liberal vote schedule is in effect:

One year	10,000
Two years	20,000
Three years	30,000
Four years	40,000
Five years	50,000

In addition to these regular subscription votes with every "club" of $12 worth of subscriptions, an extra block of votes is given, EASY TO REACH TOP.

A glance at the vote totals show that a few such subscriptions for any candidate would make a new leader in the race, in fact, ENTIRE-LY NEW candidates could, by a little enthusiastic effort, climb to the top of the list and acquire leadership for the largest of the large prizes.

Time is passing rapidly and the advantages of getting a good start cannot be too vividly impressed upon the candidates. The opportunity is exceptionally bright now and those who are entering, as well as those actively engaged in getting votes, will receive mighty big rewards for their efforts. EVERY EFFORT PUT FORTH NOW MEANS MAXIMUM RESULTS.

This splendid big vote schedule presents to each contestant the opportunity to amass a tremendous vote in just a few days. Its possibilities are unlimited for any number of clubs may be turned in by any contestant and the EXTRA 100,000 votes will be issued by each one.

You Can Be Successful

Success is not as you find it, but as you make it. Confidence is the big asset, in fact business could not exist without it. You are just as any one. Have confidence in yourself; success in anything depends totally upon the amount of confidence you have in yourself. He who thinks he can, WILL succeed, but he who knows he can't, won't and never will win. You may succeed when others do not believe in you, but never when you do not believe in yourself. If you can keep your courage when others lose heart; if you can keep pushing on when others turn back; if you can smile and wait when others play the serene in the face of misfortune, and of failure, if you can keep your you may know that there is a quality of SUCCESS in you and you are bound to come out a winner.

Red Cross Will Ask City Council for Health Center

On Friday night the health center committee of the Richmond chapter of the Red Cross will appear before the city council, sitting as a board of equalization, and present plans for the health center before the board. It is understood that $6,000 will be necessary to establish and maintain the center for one year.

The city will be asked to furnish as much of the money as the councilmen think they can appropriate.
The county will also be asked to assist financially and the Red Cross will endeavor to raise the balance of the money.

The estimate of $6,000 was made to the committee by Dr. C. L. Abbott who has been active in the campaign for the center. This estimate includes the cost of a dispensary and clinic, medical supplies for a year and the salary of a nurse. The doctors of the city have agreed to give their services in maintaining the clinic. It is planned to devote one day to a clinic for children, another day for a clinic for mothers and others for the treatment of throat and eye diseases and for surgery.

Wednesday was the hottest day of the season is the report of many of the older residents of Richmond and the surrounding neighborhood. Others maintain that it was the warmest that has been experienced here in several years. In Martinez the mercury registered 120 in some parts of the town and in the shady spots
the silver hovered around 108.

COUNTIES TO UNITE FOR ERADICATION OF MOSQUITOES

S. T. Flynn, an expert of the University of California on the eradication of mosquitoes, has outlined plans to the board of supervisors by which it is hoped that Contra Costa, Solano, Sacramento and San Joaquin counties will unite in a plan to eradicate mosquitoes.

Flynn declared that when the pests are completely destroyed at Bay Point more of them are blown in from Avon and Martinez and other points along the bay. He explained that the only way to get rid of them is for all of the communities in this district to co-operate in fighting them.

You Are Vitally Concerned

When you wish to raise funds for the support of your Church, Fraternal or Social Organization, what do you do? Do you take the next Train, Trolley or Auto for some other City and begin a canvass for funds? Certainly not, you stay right here in Richmond.
You begin at one end of the street and call on everyone until you reach the other end and then go back on the other side.

How about the time when you need some Merchandise or other household necessities? Do you use the same method? Do you continue seeking here in YOUR City until you satisfy your needs?
Just think this over a few minutes.

Well, Suppose WE ALL get together and firmly resolve that hereafter we will do ALL our shopping at home. IT will help YOU, it will help your friends—it will help ALL and most of all it will help to BOOM RICHMOND when she needs it.
